It is illegal for foreign workers to engage in part-time work

FRUIT

Example

Foreign worker A-ti was employed to come to Taiwan and work as a live-in care worker for a grandma. However, the care recipient was recently admitted to the ICU, meaning A-ti had more free time on her hands, so she wandered around a local market where she saw a fruit shop owner she knows who was rushed off his feet, so she offered to help out by serving customers and arranging goods. The owner was happy to have A-ti's assistance and gave her a little money and fruit as a thank you, unaware that doing so was illegal.

Analysis

The owner of the fruit shop violated the provisions of the Employment Service Act by illegally retaining a foreign worker to engage in work and will be fined NT$150,000 to NT$750,000.

Foreign worker A-ti also broke the law by engaging in work not designated by her employer and outside the scope of her permit. As a result, her employment permit will be revoked and she will be ordered to leave Taiwan within a fixed period of time.

Ang mga Migranteng Manggagawa ay Bawal Mag Part Time

FRUIT

Kaso

Si Adit, isang migranteng manggagawa, ay nahired ng kanyang employer upang magtrabaho bilang isang caregiver at mag-alaga ng lola. Kamakailan, dahil ipinasok ang lola sa ICU, nagkaroon si Adit ng mas maraming libreng oras. Pumunta siya sa palengke at habang naglalakad, nakita niyang abala ang may-ari ng tindahan ng prutas. Agad siyang nag-alok na tumulong sa pag-asikaso ng mga customer at pag-aayos ng mga paninda.

Natuwa ang may-ari ng tindahan at binigyan siya ng kaunting pera at prutas bilang pasasalamat. Ngunit hindi niya alam na lumabag na pala siya sa batas.

Pagsusuri

Ang may-ari ng tindahan ng prutas ay lumabag sa Employment Service Act sa pamamagitan ng pagpapahintulot sa isang banya na magtrabaho nang ilegal. Ang parusa para dito ay mula 150,000 hanggang 750,000 NTD.

Si Adit, isang migranteng manggagawa, ay lumabag din sa regulasyon sa pamamagitan ng pagtatrabaho sa ibang trabaho na hindi itinakda ng kanyang employer. Dahil dito, marerevoke ang kanyang permit at papaguhin siyang umalis ng bansa.
